* OPTIONAL “Eligible for Special Education Services” means that a student(s) meets the eligibility criteria for his or her specific handicapping condition as set forth in OAR 581-015-0051 and has been identified as having a disability by the public school. The public school can advise you whether your student(s) has been certified as eligible for special education services under this rule. Additional information and documents regarding home schooling students with disabilities are available on the Douglas ESD website.

As required by ORS 339.035, I am providing information to Douglas Education Service District (DESD) stating my intent to home school the above-named student(s). I understand this notice must be filed with DESD within 10 calendar days of withdrawing the above-named student(s) from school, and that the information will be provided to the resident district by DESD. I understand that the above-named student(s) need to complete a standardized achievement test at the required grade levels, per ORS 339.035. Please refer to the Douglas ESD Home School Guidelines for further information regarding compliance.

Please indicate your relationship to the student(s) listed above:
_________ Parent    _________ Legal Guardian (attach legal documentation)

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) (20 U.S.C. § 1232g; 34 CFR Part 99) is a Federal law that protects the privacy of student education records. The law applies to all schools that receive funds under an applicable program of the U.S. Department of Education.

FERPA gives parents certain rights with respect to their children’s education records. These rights transfer to the student when he or she reaches the age of 18 or attends a school beyond the high school level. Students to whom the rights have transferred are "eligible students."

- Parents or eligible students have the right to inspect and review the student’s education records maintained by the school. Schools are not required to provide copies of records unless, for reasons such as great distance, it is impossible for parents or eligible students to review the records. Schools may charge a fee for copies.

- Parents or eligible students have the right to request that a school correct records which they believe to be inaccurate or misleading. If the school decides not to amend the record, the parent or eligible student then has the right to a formal hearing. After the hearing, if the school still decides not to amend the record, the parent or eligible student has the right to place a statement with the record setting forth his or her view about the contested information.

- Generally, schools must have written permission from the parent or eligible student in order to release any information from a student’s education record. However, FERPA allows schools to disclose those records, without consent, to the following parties or under the following conditions (34 CFR § 99.31):
  - School officials with legitimate educational interest;
  - Other schools to which a student is transferring;
  - Specified officials for audit or evaluation purposes;
  - Appropriate parties in connection with financial aid to a student;
  - Organizations conducting certain studies for or on behalf of the school;
  - Accrediting organizations;
  - To comply with a judicial order or lawfully issued subpoena;
  - Appropriate officials in cases of health and safety emergencies; and
  - State and local authorities, within a juvenile justice system, pursuant to specific State law.

Schools may disclose, without consent, "directory" information such as a student’s name, address, telephone number, date and place of birth, honors and awards, and dates of attendance. However, schools must tell parents and eligible students about directory information and allow parents and eligible students a reasonable amount of time to request that the school not disclose directory information about them. Schools must notify parents and eligible students annually of their rights under FERPA. The actual means of notification (special letter, inclusion in a PTA bulletin, student handbook, or newspaper article) is left to the discretion of each school.
